In these days of rush and hurry courtesy is often forgotten. In the mad, pell mell rush of our little things are done to offend that we rather remained undone. A hastily executed meal and its resultant headache may cause us social or financial loss. The wise man or woman is the one who reserves little bits of this sort by a little dose of E. O. For Dyspepsia. It digests what you eat and puts your stomach back into shape. Sold by Fred D. Pierce, Barton; F. C. Kinney, Barton Landing.

VICINITY ITEMS.

Randolph Accepts.

The state championship challenge was not responded to by Woodstock. It was thought that Brattleboro might claim a right to make the contest but it failed to do so. Just before the time limit expired, however, the manager of the Randolph team put in a claim to a right to make the contest, for the reason that that it has won a very large percentage of games played and won its series with Woodstock. It is expected to arrange a game with the Randolph team to be played at Roaring Brook Park next Saturday afternoon.

County Court.

The grand jury finished its labors the first of last week and returned bills in six cases, some cases involving several persons. The petit jury has been engaged for a week on one case, that of E. A. Albee vs. George Lerrens, both parties living in Darby. The action is brought to recover damages on a certain quantity of hay which Albee bought of Lerrens, and afterwards pressed and stored the hay in defendant's barn. The plaintiff claims that three months' later, when he moved the hay, it was found musty and "rotten" and he brings suit to recover the alleged damages. This case will probably occupy the attention of the court till Tuesday or Wednesday. Grout & Grout for the plaintiff and Young & Young and J. W. Irwin for defendant.

The following letters remain uncalled for at the post office: A. G. Blanchard, Mrs. Mary Blake, A. A. Fay, Geo. St. Peter and Archie L. Stone.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gray of West Charleston and Erwin McFarlane of Woodstock were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McFarlane several days last week.

The condition of the sick is as follows: R. S. Twombly is about the same.—Geo. N. Morrill remains unconscious most of the time.—Mrs. C. H. Jackson is gaining.—Mrs. Harlow Foss has been quite sick but is reported better.

It's not often we have much to say about the editorial "we" or the MONITOR in our columns, but the front of the Owen Block is bearing a new sign reading "Orleans County Monitor." This sign is 22 feet long and 23 inches high and the raised gilt letters are a foot high. Every jot and tittle of this sign was made and designed by E. E.

Liddell, the Barton sign maker, and when you pass by just glance at it and ask yourself who could do better.

A meeting of the Barton Development Association is called at the schoolhouse to-morrow, Tuesday, evening, at 7:30 o'clock. The matter under consideration is the location of a hospital in this place. There seems to be considerable agitation among the citizens here for such an institution and the doctors are earnest in their belief that one would be a step in the right direction. It is hoped a large number of the members will turn out.

SECRETARY.

The double-header ball game Saturday between the Willoughby Wood and Lumber Co. men of South Barton and the Pillsbury & Baldwin men of this place afforded a lot of sport to those in attendance. A good number were up from South Barton to enjoy the sport. The first game resulted in the close score of 12 to 11 in favor of the Pillsbury & Baldwin men. The second game resulted in a victory for the same side by a score of 8 to 4.

The last open air concert by the band will be given in the park on Saturday evening, September 22 (weather permitting) consisting of the following program:

March, North Atlantic Squadron. Makey & Beyer. Waltz, Alberta. L. P. Laurendeau. Galop, Shooting Stars. F. H. Loney. Two-Step, Southern Smiles. F. H. Loney. Serenade, Autumn Leaves. Makey & Beyer. S. a. Riezes. F. H. Loney. March, Tenth Regiment. R. B. Hall. Cake Walk, Colored Belles. Makey & Beyer. March, Excursion Party. R. B. Hall. Atop, The Chatter. L. P. Laurendeau. Waltz, Water Sprites. F. H. Loney. March, Macaronigram. T. S. Allen.

"The Peerless Manufacturing Co. have recently added new strength to their organization and at the same time given a substantial token of their appreciation of the faithfulness and ability of their employees of long standing, by admitting into the business Eugene P. Paul, John A. Coady, Alexander P. Underwood, Cyrus E. Varney and Clarence D. Mooney, all, with the exception of Mr. Underwood, who is superintendent of the Barton branch, in charge of the different departments of the Newport factory, which is the head office of the company."

The above is from the Newport (N. H.) Argus and Spectator and will interest the many friends of Mr. Underwood here. Mr. Underwood came among us about two years ago as manager of the local factory and under him it has prospered. Mr. Underwood has been a citizen worth our deepest respect and it is with pleasure we learn of Mr. Underwood's admittance to the Peerless company. They are choosers when it comes to admittance to this prosperous company but have certainly chosen wisely in this case.

"Beautiful Barton," the long-looked-for and much anticipated souvenir booklet of Barton, issued by the Barton Development Association, has arrived. It is a fifty page book with sixty-nine views in it and a short description of Barton and interesting points thereabouts. The cut on the cover is done in two colors and the inside cuts are in a dark brown ink on a heavy paper. The book is an excellent specimen of the printers' and designers' art and is a credit to the association. The retail price of the book is 50c, and it is on sale at the different stores in Barton or will be sent on request, by mail for price by the secretary of the association. The proceeds are to go for the work of the association and to pay for the printing, as the edition of 5000 cost nearly $1000. It is the purpose of the association in the early spring to put these books in a way to bring summer trade this way and interest people in the possibilities of Barton. The association has also issued a booklet setting forth Barton industrially. This will be mailed free on request to the secretary.

Fair Notes.

Every lemonade, candy and fruit stand reports a large business.

Everyone is praising the stage attractions. The talent was excellent and very satisfactory.

The merry-go-round and the ferris wheel were worked overtime and overloaded. Did you ride?

There were a plenty of fakirs there and if you didn't patronize one or more of them you are different from us.

C. Winters of Burke, John Keith of Troy and Mr. Burbank of St. Johnsbury assisted the Barton band boys during the fair.

The dining hall had the largest business in years and no one seemed to come away from this building looking very gaunt or famished.

If anyone should ask you where the crowd was during the ball games tell them "watching the game." Probably no other single feature of the fair draws more people than good ball games.

We surrender the paper to the premium awards and fair write-up this week. Read the general account of the events on page two and glance through the premium list. It will interest you.

The Boston & Maine railroad specials on fair week were all well filled and some were crowded, others "jammed." The new special from the north this year was much appreciated by fair goers from that part of the county.

Reports too flattering to print come from towns outside as to the success of the fair. As one correspondent wrote, "Our people came home with more than the ordinary praise and we predict a still larger Barton fair delegation next year from this town."

If anyone thinks it a small job to take the judges' books and the entry books and study out the 1200 premium awards and put them into type let them work in the MONITOR office fair week. The seven columns of awards as printed on pages six and seven represent a lot of work.

The fair was honored Thursday with the presence of Mrs. Betten Van Meter of Berryville, Va., and Mrs. Cobb of the same state. Those having read the book, "The Unknown Heroine," relating the incidents connected with the finding wounded on the battle field, nursing back to health and final recovery, with the loss of a leg, of Lieutenant H. E. Bedell of Newport will recognize in Mrs. Van Meter the unknown heroine of this book. Mrs. Van Meter's sheltering and caring for a northern soldier when her interests were entirely southern has thrilled the blood of many a northerner and this noble lady will find every reader of this book a true friend.

The piano exhibits of A. R. Cowles, O. R. Moulton and E. L. Bailey were attractive booths in the floral hall and the corner occupied by C. S. Phillips, taxidermist, really "took the cake."

Mr. Phillips not only knows how to mount specimens but how to display them. Of these floral hall exhibits we would not fail to mention True & Blanchard's hardware exhibit and the exhibit of cream separators. The Sharples Tubular, United States, Omega and other makes were represented. The finest dry goods displays were made by Grace M. Cutting & Co. of millinery and Geo. H. Davis of fur goods. Of farming implements and garden tools there were big exhibits. Fred S. Whitchee probably had the largest display of all round implements consisting of gasoline engines, wagons etc. Many makes of gasoline engines were seen in working order and certainly were we to pick one out it would be a difficult job. The Keir sugar utensils display was large and made good with any of the outside exhibits, of which there were many.
